God took the fragrance

of a flower...

The majesty of a tree...

The gentleness of morning dew...

The calm of a quiet sea...

The beauty of the twilight hour...

The soul

of a starry night...

The laughter of a rippling brook...

The grace of a bird

in flight...

Then God fashioned

from these things

A creation like no other,

And when his masterpiece was through

He called it simply -

Mother.

John writes that Jesus prayed to his Father that the disciples may be one. Ideally, the disciples would always pray and speak and act with one accord, but realistically, disagreements and discord arise. Therefore, it is crucial that the disciples commit to reconciling with each other whenever this happens. God’s love is the glue that binds us together. Ultimately, we need to love each other with a selfless and forgiving love, as Jesus showed on the cross. This is why John writes to the early church that we must love one another. He is appealing to the entire faith community to love each other with a reconciling love so that all remain as one.

By remaining in love with each other, the early Christians committed themselves to taking care of each other, supporting each other, and defending each other, especially important in a fledgling community that was persecuted by the authorities. We too commit ourselves to caring for one another even when that places us in a difficult position.

Jesus would not have prayed specifically to his Father that his disciples may be one if he hadn’t realized that this would be difficult, that their unity would be fragile. Already he knew one disciple would betray him and another would deny him. Soon he would send them out into the world, where they would have to deal with people and issues that would prove difficult. So, he prays to the Father for their unity and their protection. Then he sends the Spirit to remain with them, to bind them together, to protect them in their faith. How have I experienced disunity with other Christians? How can I reconcile with those whom I disagree with?
